

These Great Swimmers to Meet at Last

By Peg Murray

DUKE KAHANAMOKU

JOHN WEISSMULLER

Everything in all swimming circles is looking forward to the meeting of Duke Kahanamoku and John Weissmuller at last. That is, if Duke really does come to the national swimming championships at the Illinois A. C. to be held the first week in April. His entry in it, and letters and telegrams from his club and association have confirmed it. Duke's greatest years have undoubtedly passed, but any man who as Kahanamoku did last year is certainly going to make Weissmuller hostile. Fred Cady, swimming coach at the Los Angeles Athletic club, says that the difference between Duke's and John's strokes is more in the arms than in the legs. "Weissmuller reaches forward farther," says Cady.

and does not whip the arm across under the body quite as soon as Duke." Coach Bill Bachrach of the Illinois Athletic club, says this about it: "Duke relies more on his strength than John's, and his stroke is not quite so finished. They both 'plane the water' at the finish of a race, but John's stroke is longer. Weissmuller's stroke is a little slower than Duke's, and he swims a little higher in the water." There you are—Bachrach's words carry a little more weight—about 150 pounds more. Uncle Sam should worry which one wins—they both sport the red, white and blue. (Copyright, 1934, Associated Editors, Inc.)

USING THE NIBLICK

DON'T TRY FOR "LIFT" CLUB WILL DO IT.
HOLDING NOT FOR SWING—USE IT
1. GET OUT OF "TIGHT"
2. PUTTER TO GREEN
3. MAKE BALL OVER
4. MAKE OBJECT.

What are the important points to consider in regard to the use of the niblick?

Answered by

JOHN BLACK

"The Carpenter of Tross," whose great numbers and mastery of golf have been noted at all tournaments. Particularly competent on approach shots.

In using the niblick the player should make any effort to lift the ball. The club will do that. The niblick is a club that is not made for distance. It has a small round head made for the purpose of getting the ball out of holes in the ground and bushes and long grass, or for raising the ball over some high object in front of you, or in pitching to the green if you want the ball to stop quickly. Don't use it for other purposes.

CO. G WINS CLOSE CONTENT

Soldiers Emerge Victorious From Frenzy With R. F. I. Collegians Last Evening by Score of 27-24—Game Close and Clean.

Fighting against a heavier team, and one of the best in eastern collegiate circles, the Co. G quintet defeated the R. F. I. All Collegians by a score of 27-24, in a close and clean basketball game at the armory last evening. The contest was undoubtedly one of the closest and fastest seen in Oneonta in several years and each team was forced to give its best. In a preliminary the O. H. S. Independents easily defeated the Five Spots by a score of 23 to 15.

The defense of the visitors proved particularly puzzling to the soldiers during the first half, and the latter took the small end of a 15 to 18 score at the end of the first half.

The second half showed little change, the score being nearly even all the way, and the local team won in the last two minutes of play, and then two field baskets in rapid succession by Palmer and Delaney.

That a game can be of the closest and still be free from fouls was clearly indicated in the game last evening, only four fouls being called on the visitors, and six on Co. G.

Following are the tabulations of last evening's game. The final game for the Co. G team will be against the Colgate university quintet on the evening of April 4 at the armory.

HURED BY FALLING TREE

Workmen Knocked Unconscious While
Cutting Wood on Alms Farm
Thursday.

Schuyler Lake, Mar. 23. — Ward Patrick and Gerrie Baugh, while at work cutting trees for George Ainslie on the mountain, had the misfortune Thursday morning to have a large limb break off a rotten tree which they had just felled and rebound, striking them both. Mr. Patrick was knocked unconscious, having been struck on the head and shoulder of his right side. A gash was cut over his eye, his chin was cut so that several stitches were necessary and several teeth were knocked out. Mr. Baugh had his leg broken near the hip. Mr. Baugh managed to arouse Mr. Patrick and the latter went nearby a mile to the Ainslie saw mill for help. They were brought to their homes here and Dr. Fink attended them. Dr. Sweet of Ulster was called for Mr. Baugh and reduced the fracture. It was unfortunate that the accident happened as the young men were about to begin their summer work.

Funeral of Richard Jones.

The funeral of Richard Jones was held from his son's home Tuesday afternoon at 2 p. m. Rev. Frank Benfield officiated.

Those from away who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dubell of Clinton, T. C. Bevins of Ulster, Mrs. Lina Jones, Robert Jones and Miss Margaret Jones of Okauchville. The burial was made in the family plot in the village cemetery.

AMERICAN LEGION BANQUET

Army Rations Served—Entertainment Greatly Enjoyed—Mrs. Laverna Gove Dies — Presbyterians Hold Annual Meeting.

Worcester, Mar. 23.—The Banquet held Wednesday evening under the auspices of the American Legion was thoroughly enjoyed by all present. Rev. Father Reilly, chairman of the evening, introduced the speakers in his usual pleasing manner.

S. M. Flint, who was General Grant's bugler and gave the call when Lee surrendered to Grant, spoke in behalf of the Civil War veterans, giving something of his own personal history from the time he enlisted at the age of 14 until the close of the war.

Mrs. George Sloan, president of the Woman's Relief corps, spoke on the value of the American flag and in closing read a beautiful poem entitled, "Betsey Ross's Flag."

F. J. O'Marah, in behalf of the playground committee, pictured the future of that playground if backed by the American Legion.

Attorney James Friery, following the line of Mr. O'Marah's talk, stated that any worthy cause backed by the Legion and assisted by the women was sure to be put across. Mr. Friery also said it had been a great cause of satisfaction to him to know that that day, by his efforts at the county court, an American soldier, charged with a serious crime, had been exonerated.

Jack Colbeck and daughter, Mrs. Howard Henderson, rendered several delightful vocal duets.

Following the entertainment, beans, crackers, and coffee were served in true army style. Dancing followed, with music by the Merry Makers of Schenectady.

Death of Mrs. Laverna Gove.

Mrs. Lina Sprail, wife of Laverna Gove, died at the family home last night, following a shock which she suffered during the day. More extended notice will appear in The Star of Monday.

Presbyterians Hold Annual Meeting.

A profitable and interesting meeting was held in the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon and evening, when reports of the various organizations were read and officers elected.

The Christian Helpers elected the following officers: President, Mrs. I. C. Henderson; vice president, Mrs. G. H. Butler; secretary, Mrs. W. H.

French; treasurer, Mrs. Nina McCabe. This meeting was followed by a beautiful supper of which about 60 people partook. A pleasant feature of the supper hour was the after dinner games and stunts, provided by a class of young men from the Sunday school, which were entered into by young and old, and all enjoyed the fun and contests.

At 7:30 o'clock the annual church meeting was called to order by the pastor, Rev. W. D. Jones, with W. H. French as clerk. The reports from the various organizations of the church showed that there was a keen interest in activities; that the finances were in excellent condition, there being a balance in each of the different treasuries, with all bills and accounts paid.

G. B. Crippen and Frank S. Fletcher were re-elected as elders for three years and G. Howard Butler was re-elected deacon for three years. At a meeting of the session, following the church annual meeting, officers of the Sunday school were appointed. All report the work of the day inspiring and uplifting.

That Body of Hours

By James W. Bates, M.D.
 WHAT NATURE EXPECTS FROM YOU.

I often wonder what nature thinks about the help you give her with that body of yours.

She gave you a body that will do almost everything. It is a wonderful machine, and she provided food of every kind,
 and then made a body that could use that food.

Further, you don't have to be an expert mechanic to keep it in shape.
 All you have to do is to use ordinary care and common sense, and your body runs along of its own accord.

Someone has said that the body is the most wonderful machine ever made, because it is automatic and absolutely "fool proof."

I agree that it is the most wonderful mechanism known, but it is not fool proof entirely, because you know what happens to it sometimes due to your own foolishness. It is because it is so wonderful that you take chances with it. It seems to be able to stand so much. Its very perfection, as it were, makes you careless.

However, what I had in mind is the manner in which nature does her part in holding up the intestines and other abdominal organs in their proper places.

She has bands going out from the spinal column, behind, which hold the organs up in their places.

In front she supplied you with abdominal muscles which were to hold them up in front.

Thus with the support behind and in front, the organs would not "drop"
 out of place.

What about these muscles of the abdomen?

You will remember that they run up and down, across, and also oblique-ly over the abdomen, forming a regular muscular wall in front, which nature expected would be sufficient to hold the intestines and other organs
 in place.

Why do they not do their work, and permit the dropping mentioned above?
 Simply because nature expected you to do your part.

When you were created you were to earn your bread by the "sweat of your brow." Your body was meant to function in every way. It was never intended that you should sit at a desk every day, stand at a bench, or do the various things now necessary
 in this complex civilization of ours.

What is the result?
 That the front abdominal muscles,
 that can be kept strong only by bending and twisting the body, get so exhausted, that they are unable to do their work. And so these unused muscles allow the abdominal contents to sag. Often the stomach and intestines drop inches below the normal position, with the result that they cannot do their work properly.

There is a general sluggishness of movement there due to this relaxed or "dropped" position of the abdominal muscles.

What is my suggestion?
 That if you are weak or sick, that you wear an abdominal belt for awhile until you get stronger. The rational treatment is to get busy and develop the muscular belt or support that nature gave you, in your abdominal muscles. Bending forward and rotating the body, will show a hardening or a tightening of the abdominal muscles in six weeks. Your good sense will keep you at it. Three minutes twice a day will be all that is necessary.

Party on 62nd Birthday.
 A delightful birthday surprise party was given on Wednesday for Mrs. William Edmunds of 145 River street by her 19 children and grandchildren in honor of her 62nd birthday. The evening was very pleasantly spent with music and conversation and light refreshments were served, which included a large and beautiful birthday cake. Mrs. Edmunds was the recipient of several handsome and useful gifts.

IN INTEREST OF INSURED.
 Expert and impartial investigators unanimously agree that capital should be encouraged to invest in the fire insurance business and that legislation affecting the business should not be of a restrictive character.

Due to the multiplicity of laws which regulate and prescribe how the fire insurance industry must be conducted, practically no new insurance companies are being started to care for the increasing business of the nation. The records do not show a single company that might be considered a notable success which has begun business during the past thirty years and done business on its own responsibility, without the backing of some old and strong company.

The best thing that could possibly be done for the insured is to remove all unnecessary restrictions from the companies and to encourage the formation of organizations for properly adjusting rates and preserving stable conditions.

CARDS ON THE TABLE POLICY.
 It looks as if the Dawes committee
 now working out a settlement plan
 on the reparations question will evolve a scheme that will be practical. After years of "diplomatic" controversies
 and do-nothing policies, a business-like plan will smoke a lot of European politicians out of their holes and they will either have to favor the plan or admit frankly that they would rather continue the controversy than settle the matter.

The Dawes committee is in the peculiar position of being able to say of its work, "Take it or leave it, here is a business-like solution. The plan is the closest thing to a business-like solution. The plan will be settled and the world will be able to draw its own conclusions regarding the final settlement of the reparations question."

AN EXCELLENT PRODUCTION
 "The Heart of the Hero" Draws Crowd
 at Davenport—Repeated Tonight.

Davenport, Mar. 20. — The Opera house of this village was well filled this evening for the production of "The Heart of the Hero," presented by a cast of High school students.
 The entertainment will be repeated
 this evening, with the vaudeville program changed, and another crowd is expected.

The play was well staged and all of the characters did exceptionally well in their respective parts. The presentation is for the benefit of the High school and the Missionary society of the Methodist church.

One of the hits of the evening was the 14 piece orchestra of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Oneonta, which was secured at the last minute after it was found that on account of illness Collier's orchestra
 could not appear.

Maurice Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reynolds of Oneonta, drummer with the orchestra, proved a treat indeed to the audience. The orchestra which took part Friday evening will present again tonight.

THE GUIDE POST—

POPULAR FOLLY
 The way of a fool is right in his own eyes.—Prov. 12:15.

Half the troubles of mankind come from ignorance—ignorance which is systematically organized with societies for its support and newspapers
 for its dissemination—ignorance which consists less in not knowing things than in willfully ignoring the things that are already known.

There are certain physical diseases which would go out of existence in ten years if people would only remember what has been learned.

There are certain political and social plagues which are propagated only in the atmosphere of shallow self-confidence and vulgar thought-lessness.

There is a yellow fever of literature especially adapted and prepared for the spread of a shameless curiosity,
 incorrect information, and complacent
 stupidity among all classes of the population.

Persons who fall under the influence of this pest become so triumphantly ignorant that they cannot distinguish between news and knowledge.

They develop a morbid thirst for printed matter, and the more they read the less they learn.

They are fit soil for the bacteria
 of folly and fanaticism.

SILENCE

By Grace E. Hall

Somewhere is one whose praise I crave
 More than the laurel crown,
 A smile in the eyes so blue and grave,
 Meeting my own of brown;
 Clasp of a tender hand and strong
 Words in a mellow tone,
 Vibrant note in my sweetest song,
 Lik that has waned, I own.

But silence across the space of years,
 Though others in kindness come;
 Silence across the waste of tears,
 Silence! But just that one Could waken the chords of a lost refrain
 On the harp of my soul's desire;
 But only an echo, dull with pain,
 Drifts from that muted lyre.

Mrs. Clarke Writes Cleverly Of Social Life at Washington

Wife of Congressman Clarke Pens Interesting Summary of Winter in National Capital - President Coolidge Cool and Collected Despite Efforts to Discredit - Mrs. Coolidge, Woman of Rare Charm, Enhances Popularity of Administration.

Dear Mr. Editor: Since the Representative from the thirty-fourth congressional district is so long as it remained winter in the capital, I am taking my typewriter in hand to gratify him and hoping that he is right as to the possible interest of your readers in the result.

Climatically Washington has enjoyed a mild and rather open winter, that is so long as it remained winter by the calendar. But when March came, winter was in the proverbial lamb, and all of a sudden the weather was as warm as a blanket.

He then proceeded to make up for lost time with snowstorms and blizzards galore. I suppose we must still look for him to go out like a lion, but one cannot help hoping to see traditions overturned, unpleasant ones at any rate.

With the reassembling of congress the official social season of course resumed and the dates for the annual functions at the White House were announced. Everyone else waits upon those before making social plans, so events have to be arranged for a considerable time ahead where everyone lives such a crowded life as here.

The diplomatic reception had been held and the invitations were out for the congressional when there occurred the death of ex-President Woodrow Wilson and all invitations were recalled, engagements cancelled and a period of official mourning declared that has taken us up to Lent.

The people to whom social gayeties mean much, are looking forward to the period after Easter which is here referred to as "the little season" and is often livelier and, of course, more informal than the winter season.

However the storm of investigations, probes, blasted reputations, the disclosures and so-called disclosures of the oil scandal, the Veterans' bureau scandal, the department of justice investigation, the Bureau of Internal Revenue probe and other, somewhat numerous to mention, together with the tenacious of the approaching elections all people's minds to the exclusion of the usual desire for more "good times." Indeed the fashionable sport of the winter has been the attending of hearings and probes. The capitol is thronged through every hour of the sessions, while long lines of people wait outside the entrances of the senate galleries for hours at a time, patiently waiting for those inside to get enough and give up a seat. When a seat is vacated, the next in line gets it and the rest go on patiently waiting.

Congress assemblies at noon and the really hard-boiled "gallery fans" are sometimes in line early in the forenoon.

I do not mean to state that it is always like this, but it is when there is likely to be something particularly exciting and, of course, the more outside can never be sure when that will be. Once inside and established in a seat one may sit for hours bored to death with unimportant routine but there is the chance that something "may break." It is all very well for people who have nothing else to do with their time, but personally I am too busy for more than an occasional attempt to break in or to help someone else break in. I get most of mine second-hand from the newspapers.

And such a harvest as it is for the newspapers. Events and names that would ordinarily be plastered across the first page in big letters are often merely given a brief paragraph in some of the obscure corners, while scandals and rumors of scandals crowd each other for first place.

The situation is much the same as in the legislative halls themselves. Matters of importance, measures that ought to have been disposed of long ago, and legislation that is vital to the public welfare, has all had to be sidetracked until the trouble makers have exhausted their ammunition and those blasted by the storm have done what they can to salvage their good names from the wreck. It is an unprecedented situation and it seems to me that the really thoughtful and patriotic efforts are making a very honest effort to suspend judgment until the mass of accusations and denials shall have been legally sifted.

One interesting phase of the whole upheaval is the new men and personalities that are being brought to the top by the demands of the proceedings. It will be even more interesting to note which of these personalities are destined to make good and to remain in the foreground of public life and which are destined to disappear or to be, in their turn, disgraced.

President Coolidge seems so far to be unswerving the storm unshaken. The ill-advised attempt to drag his name into the sea of mire by misrepresenting two private telegrams brought forth a calm but emphatic denial and statement of the facts in

The Annals Association of Maintenance of Way Mechanics and Helpers, to which Mr. Ter Bush belongs; the Woman's Benefit Association of Poughkeepsie; the Ladies Aid society of the Colliers Methodist church; the Cooperstown Junction Methodist Episcopal church, of which the deceased was a member, were the organizations which sent floral tributes.

DEATHS

Death of Mrs. Lucy J. Phillips. The body of the late Mrs. Lucy J. Phillips of Elmira was brought yesterday to Oneonta from Elmira, arriving at 3:45 in this city, whence it was taken to Laurens for interment in the village cemetery. The funeral services were held yesterday morning in Elmira at the home of her son, Candius Phillips, with whom for the past ten years she resided; and the committal service at Laurens was in charge of the Rev. Dr. Graves, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in that village.

Mrs. Phillips, who was 82 years of age, was a native of the town of Westford and wife of the late John P. Phillips. The family home was for many years near the Oneonta reservoir, and Mrs. Phillips will be remembered by many of the older residents of that community. About a year and a half ago she suffered a fall which resulted in a broken hip, and had ever since been confined to her bed. The son above named is her only near surviving relative.

Mrs. Martha Brandt.

Mrs. Martha Brandt, for the past 12 years a member of the household of Dr. George J. Dunn, city superintendent of schools, died at the home, 2 Watkins avenue last night about midnight. She had been in failing health for several years and had been more feeble for the past week. Further reference to her demise and life with the funeral announcement will be made in the Star of Monday.

MRS. CLARKE WRITES CLEVERLY ON SOCIAL LIFE AT WASHINGTON

the case. That is as near as the politicians have yet come to "letting a rise out of" the President. Meanwhile his stock seems to remain solid through the country at large. When multitudes of men are talking the same, or too irresponsibly, or both, the man who can keep still until he has something to say and then say it and go back to keeping still, is bound to win and hold the respect and confidence of the general public, and special public invariably having more sense than the politicians ever credit it with.

One overdone character of the President referred to Mr. Coolidge's "cold, crafty, calculating" character. "Cold, crafty, calculating" is a word used for the sake of argument that there is any accuracy in that description. It seems to me that that is not such a bad measure of the characteristics needed in an executive these days. I think though that a better selection of adjectives would be "cool, calm, calm and courteous."

Mr. Coolidge, the fatherly secretary of President Wilson, made an appeal in a public speech the other day that I am sure would find an echo in many hearts. That was a plan to spare the president unnecessary heckling and vilification since his yarden is already almost more than one man can hope to bear for long. He added that Mr. Wilson was "crucified by his critics."

For a silent, retiring, unassuming man, the President has an amazing popularity here. A change of this is undoubtedly due to the merits of his wife.

Mrs. Coolidge is very much the "real thing," unaffectedly friendly, interesting in everyone, simple and sweet and sympathetic. She has a certain gleaming appeal in appearance and manner, but can be quite completely dignified when the occasion calls for it. The advocates of college training for girls point to her with pride as a proof that college training fits a woman to grace any station from a cottage to a palace and back again. Mrs. Coolidge is an alumnus of the University of Vermont and is an accomplished musician. She dresses extremely well in a conservative way, and is what I should call picturesque, interesting, or distinctive, rather than pretty. She has a quick, business-like but graceful carriage, and always seems perfectly poised and unself-conscious. She is said to possess a remarkable memory for names and faces, which is a wonderful asset for her present position.

We were among the lucky ones to be included in the guest list of the diplomatic reception, the one large White House entertainment that has occurred. We also had the pleasure of observing some extremely pretty girls, as Miss Dean and her sisters, through some of their family connections, were included, also in the list of guests for this occasion. They received a great deal of admiration, and we thought ourselves that our "borrowed" daughters, rather than the majority of other "buds" among them present.

The assemblage presented a vivid and brilliant picture. It is the most cosmopolitan of the big functions here, and the brilliant uniforms and decorations of the representatives of the foreign countries and the ladies in white and other adornments of their wives.

The representatives of the South American countries rather surpass in gold lace, and their ladies in Paris gowns and jewels, the representatives of the European powers. There are many very beautiful women and girls among the South Americans. I suppose it is the dash of Spanish blood, or, in some cases, all Spanish blood, that gives them their striking sort of good looks.

The White House is always beautiful at night with its blazing candelabra and quantities of flowers. The Marine band in their red coats was stationed, as always, in the entrance hall and furnished music throughout the evening.

They played the usual "Hail to the Chief" as the President and Mrs. Coolidge, followed by Secretary and Mrs. Hughes and others of the receiving party and the official household came down the broad staircase and took their places in line.

Mrs. Coolidge looked very girlish indeed and really suggested a bride, for her dress was soft white satin, simply made in a draped and trailing fashion, and with no noticeable jewelry or other adornment.

Among the diplomats I was particularly interested in studying the German ambassador, Dr. Wiedemann. He is tall, thin, rather distinguished looking man, with a pointed beard and a generally detached air. I suppose the poor man must early feel himself detached and which hardly he blamed for looking so. I dare say he feels and possibly looks even more detached since the regrettable episode of refusing to lower the German flag when Mr. Wilson died.

The points of Woodrow Wilson was an event that brought many interesting phases of human psychology.

Of course, the C. of Washington itself is a strongly Democratic city and very much a Southern city. Mr. Wilson was always watched by the resident majority here. His appearance in public was always the signal for a demonstration and there was hardly a time that tourists or parties of sightseers were not passing his house or campsite, hoping for a glimpse of the man who inspired such adoring love and such vindictive and bitter hatreds that probably none of his own day can judge him accurately.

It is said that the family living across the street from the Wilsons sold their home and moved away because of the annoyance of having sightseers parked on their curbing and camped at their door steps by day and by night.

During his last illness, special police had to be detailed to keep the crowd silent and moving in an orderly fashion. As many people, representing all walks of life, come to his house, ready to pay him a tribute to his life, it is not surprising to hear word of his condition.

When he died all public buildings and foreign legations and embassies immediately lowered their flags to the very last cord in the gallery of half-mast with the exception of the German embassy, which refused to do so.

Perceiving this some college boys from a Fraternity house near by, aided by some taxi drivers, pulled a large American flag about the pillars of the embassy porch. The ambassador was wise enough to merely notify the police and the flag was quietly removed without further demonstration. Since that time the ambassador has blamed his lack of proper instruction from home and "home" has blamed the ambassador, but the common sense of common sense is that it is just another instance of German failure to grasp the American way of looking at things, American psychology, to go back to that overworked word.

On the twenty-seventh of February the whole official world came together on the solemn occasion of the memorial service of the senate and house for the late President Harding.

I was fortunate enough to draw one of the seats. The house chamber is always chosen for joint meetings because of its greater seating capacity.

I was only a few seats away from where Mrs. Harding sat in the tribune, directly opposite the speaker's chair and I thought what a pathetic and gallant figure she presented during what must have been a dreadful ordeal for her. She kept her composure even when the band was playing Mr. Harding's favorite hymns.

She wore a simple black coat with black fur and a small crepe hat with a widow's veil at the back.

She was accompanied by Mr. George Christian, the secretary of the former President, and by a small group of her relatives and most intimate friends.

In the executive gallery where Mrs. Harding had always been seated when she was mistress of the White House, were Mrs. Coolidge with the ladies of the cabinet and supreme court. Mrs. Nicholas Longworth also accompanied her, together with a party of visiting friends.

The leading dignitaries, of course had seats on the floor of the house, the President, the cabinet, the supreme court and many others, with a special section reserved for the ambassadors and ministers of foreign nations.

As they came in we noted M. Juncrat, French ambassador and Dean of the Diplomatic Corps at their head, then the Spanish ambassador, Senor Riano, the tall figure of Prince Caxari of Italy, then Dr. Wiedemann, Johann de Graaf of the Netherlands, Dr. Panaretov of Bulgaria, Prince Bibesco of Rumania, Dr. Sun of China and many others down to the least known Younger Pasha, Egypt's last minister to the United States.

It was interesting to watch them all file in.

The senate came first so that the two houses might convene in joint session. Then came the supreme court in their robes, the diplomats and lastly the President with his cabinet.

This ceremony took place on the same day and hour that a similar service was held for William McKinley twenty-two years ago and one for James A. Garfield some forty years before.

The ceremony opened with a prayer by the chaplain and this was followed by an address delivered by the secretary of State, Mr. Charles Evans Hughes.

Mr. Hughes in a polished and pertinent speech with an easy pleasant voice that carried perfectly without apparent effort on his part. The address held the closest attention of the audience for more than an hour.

I am afraid that this literary effort to glorify a hero that it will have more sense than you think it worth and there is a chance I could choose more than I think I had better say on the subject of it go with another time.

However, I might close by saying that I found on watching and listening to the ceremony "Conservation from the South" in a White House Manual, last Monday.

NORMAL SCHOOL NOTES

Ten in Honor of Teachers of Tipperary Normal School—Commencement Approaching—Perfect Plans for Big Society Movement—Track Meet to Be Held This Year.

On last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. J. J. Todd, head of the domestic arts department, entertained at tea in the kindergarten room, the students who took part in the Tipperary Normal School held last week, several members of the senior class and of the faculty. The room was very pleasantly decorated for the occasion and it was one of great pleasure for all who attended.

Committees have been appointed by the student body to work out plans for the annual meeting of the freshmen class which are to be held next year. The Big and Little Sister commission is working on plans by which the juniors and seniors, who are both privileged to be big sisters, may come to know the freshmen entering in the fall. The big sister will correspond with her freshman during the summer vacation and thus become acquainted with her before she enters the school. In this way the upper classmen will be able to assist the students entering for the first time. Further plans whereby the big sisters will be able to assist the freshmen are being perfected.

The rules committee has been appointed to make the rules for the new students who are entering in the fall. In this way the freshmen will not be surprised during their first year as many privileges as the juniors and seniors.

Miss Anna Love, head of the physical training department, is perfecting plans for an inter-class meet which will probably be held soon after the spring vacation. Much interest is being shown in favor of the meet among the students and the present outlook as to its success is very promising. There will be a fifty and a hundred yards dash, basketball and baseball, standing high jump, standing broad jump, and running broad and high jump. It is quite probable that members of all three classes will compete.

Personal and Local.

New Youth

For women—new beauty for girls

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I found in France, many years ago, the supreme aide to beauty and to youth. I was a plain girl, and they made me the rage of New York. And now, after 40 years in the time, they keep me on the stage or elsewhere, marvel at my youthful bloom.

I have brought the same results to many. So I know these same helps can bring millions multiplied beauty and perennial youth. Now I have arranged so all who wish may get them. And I am taking time to tell the facts about them.

My White Youth Clay.
This is a white, refined clay, amazing and delightful in results. It has been perfected by 20 years of scientific study.

Many of you know what clay does. Even the crude and muddy clays so many are still using. They purge the skin of all that clogs and mars it. They bring a new complexion, rosy, clear and clean. They firm the skin, combat all lines and wrinkles, reduce the pores. You see everywhere the youth and beauty that results from clay.

But my white Youth Clay is vastly more efficient. It is the last word in facial clay. Many women, with one application, seem to drop ten years. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

My Youth Cream.
My cold cream was perfected by French experts. I call it my Youth Cream. It contains products of the Walla.

My Hair Youth.
This is another French creation. It embodies all that aids hair health and growth. My hair is my greatest glory. It is heavy, thick and lustrous. I have never had falling hair or dandruff, never a touch of gray. I apply Hair Youth with an eye dropper, directly to the scalp. It removes the hardened oil and dandruff which clogs the hair roots. It stimulates and fortifies. All in one minute daily, without massing the hair.

My hair shows what Hair Youth does. I would not for a fortune go without it. It comes to you at little cost—50 cents and $1—with eye dropper.

All druggists and toilet counters now supply these three helps. I use. They offer each under guarantee. I urge all girls and women to learn how much they mean. No other methods that I know can bring so much of added beauty or continued youth. Edna Wallace Hopper, 336 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago. Adv.
